FVORS A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

One of the best things done during the whole session was the passage of a bill introduced by Mr. Comins, recommending to the electors of this State that a convention be called to revise the State Constitution. The Appeal raises a great howl because such a convention would probably cost the State $25,000. As the question of convention or no convention will have to be voted upon at the next general election, we think it is perfectly safe to leave it to the voters of the State whether the dance is worth the cost of the fiddler. The Constitution certainly needs revision, as is shown by the numerous amendments proposed by the Legislature at this session, and it may be cheaper in the long run, and it will certainly be more satisfactory, to submit the whole matter to a body of men who are specially qualified to determine what changes will be beneficial, and then to put them into proper form, than to submit each amendment separately. The people would thus have an opportunity to settle for a long time to come, the questions of woman's suffrage, referendum, taxation, lottery, education, etc., that have for a long time vexed them.—White Pine News.

A convention would have matters of far greater importance than those to settle; questions which involve Nevada's continuance of Statehood, which it will be impossible to maintain at the pace we are going under the high pressure Constitution which was adopted in 1864, and in anticipation of 500,000 instead of 40,000 population. In an article a few days ago the JOURNAL proved that the expense of holding a convention, instead of $25,000, need be less than $5,000. The making of the necessary changes by amendments has been too often tried, and failed to require discussion. But the few important changes have been made after repeated trials in the last twenty years. In the Legislature of 1884, there was a joint committee appointed to make such necessary revision, by amendments, of the Constitution as would avoid the necessity of calling a convention. The committee was composed of the best material in both houses, and it performed five times more laborious work during the session than all of the other committees of both houses put together. It held meetings four or five evenings each week for nearly the entire session. It performed actually more work than would be required to form an entirely new Constitution, for to make one important amendment, it was sometimes necessary to make changes in 20 minor clauses to render the main one operative. But finally the work was completed and the amendments passed by large majorities in both houses. Everybody was pleased and the most ardent advocates of a convention admitted that the work of the committee removed the necessity of holding one. Two years later, however, it was found that all of the committee's labor had been in vain. The amendments had been spread on the Journal of the Senate, when they were introduced, and the omission of the Clerk of the Assembly to place them on the Journal of that house, as the Constitution required, knocked the entire business in the head, and the necessary changes were as remote as ever. The work of that committee, however, could be utilized by the members of a convention, and with such aid thirty-five men of intelligence could easily formulate a satisfactory Constitution in less than twenty days. We are glad that the News favors the measure, upon the general principles that it does, and we are confident that when its editor looks further into the matter, he will not only recognize the fact that such an assemblage would not only be beneficial, but an absolute indispensability in the inauguration of a general system of economic reform.

Our no-trade contemporary around the corner, says the JOURNAL's article on the low price of wool was full of gross misstatements, and courteously remarks that the writer on the Texas paper, from which he largely quoted, was either a knave or a fool or both. Our esteemed contemporary, however, failed to cite a single misstatement in either the JOURNAL's or the Texas paper's remarks. If our E. C. was the same kind of a knave or fool as the Texas writer, it would be a pleasure for the JOURNAL to discuss the tariff question with it. As it is, it would be like discussing political economy with Senator Livingston or a Piute.

The government of the State of Nevada is composed of four co-ordinate branches, the executive, judicial, legislative and Charley Wallace.—Quelque fois.

That's not true. There is but one co-ordinate branch of the State government (this is written on Saint Patrick's day, so excuse our Irish bull). It is true that the constitution provides for three branches, but by mutual agreement they have all been consolidated in the person of Mr. Wallace.

Does the Carson News mean to assert that if Senator Stewart was in the business of selling his vote on such a measure as the Dingley bill, he would do it for so cheap a price as the appointment of Rounselle Wildman to the consulate at Hong Kong?—Report.

Excuse us for chipping in, Brother C. We don't know what the News thinks, but the JOURNAL agrees with you in believing that our venerable Senator is not so cheap a man. The appointment mentioned and the federal patronage in Nevada, were doubtless only little matters "thrown in," in the bargain for a vote for a bill which increases the expense of living in Nevada fully twenty per cent, and without benefitting to the extent of a nickel one hundred voters in the State. Oh, no, votes for the Dingley bill were ranging too high for a business man like our junior Senator to dispose of his for such trifling considerations.

THE Nevada Republican papers "point with pride" to the alleged prosperity in the east as evidence of the wisdom of the McKinley administration. By parity of reasoning, so far as their State is concerned, they might as well claim that the snow fall in the Alleghanies last winter would prove of immense benefit to the farmers of Washoe county.

JONES and Stewart controlled all of the federal appointments for Nevada. Suppose for a change they try their hands at preventing the Carson mint being reduced to a one horse assay office.

REVENUES.

W. M. Buckhalter of Truckee is registered at the Riverside.

The barroom stove in the National hotel in Nevada City, Cal., was put up in 1864, since when $3,500 worth of wood has been consumed in it.

The Washoe Lunch Counter has another appetizing display of good things in the show window. For a first-class meal, cooked to a turn go to the lunch counter to-day.

A little bird has informed the JOURNAL that Joe Josephs is booked for Superintendent of the Orphan's Home, and that Sol Hilp is to be bookkeeper at the Nevada Hospital for Mental Diseases.

While helping to deborn some cattle on the Fernald ranch Tuesday afternoon, Alfred Bruce was hit on the jaw by the end of a piece of timber in the chute, and badly bruised, the jawbone broken.—Elko Free Press.

U. S. Surveyor Kyle is building fences, trimming the trees in his orchard, on the lot which he purchased from R. Ryland, and is making arrangements for the construction of a residence thereon in the near future.

Just stop and take a good look at the show window at the Washoe Lunch Counter. It's dollars to doughnuts that four minutes after asking yourself whether you are hungry or not you will be inside giving an order for something good to eat.

Rev. G. H. Jones of the Methodist Church, will preach this evening on "Satan and Demons." We have never had any personal acquaintance with his Satanic Majesty or his demons, although we have seen a good deal of their work, and imagine that information concerning their personnel would prove interesting and instructive, both to the all around sinner and the exemplary Christian.

The Palace Dry Goods and Carpet House announces in this issue the arrival of an entire new stock of shirt waists. Everyone of these is up to date in style, color and material. Some are tucked, some plain, some with yoke back, but all are stylish and of absolutely new design. The Palace is receiving new dress goods and new fancy goods almost every day. Look at the display in the windows.

The evangelists, Revs. Gallaborn and Boyd will preach to-morrow afternoon and evening on the subject of Sampson's conundrum about "plowing with a borrowed heifer," and "get there." The female bovine plowing business is a novelty which ought to attract a crowd, and as almost everybody wants to "get somewhere" either to Klondike or the Legislature, the subject should fill to overflowing the Opera House, or the "Devil's Temple," as it is sometimes called, from pit to dome with information seekers.

Give and Take.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." Apparently our young friend of the Virginia Report is an exception to the rule. He should learn to take as well as give a "josh," and when one of his ironical jokes is turned upon him, however weak and bungling, he should not become pettish, especially when it is evident that no offense was intended.

Reno Does, and Carson Don't.

The postal department has decided to give Reno a free delivery. Carson City also asked the same favor from the department, but was denied because she had neither 10,000 inhabitants or postal receipts of $10,000, one of which is a prerequisite to the adoption of the system.

No California Senator.

A telegram received at 10 o'clock last night stated the Senator deadlock was still firm, and that both houses would adjourn at 12 o'clock. It is highly improbable that an agreement was reached in the last two hours. We may safely say that California is without a S. P. Senator.

The Platform Woman.

"The platform woman never has been a credit to, but ever a blot upon, American womanhood. I make this emphatic statement from a personal knowledge of the homes which these women leave behind when they go to their meetings," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"I have seen the rooms of their homes left in wild disorder; I have seen their servants sitting in idleness with work on every hand to do; I have seen the children neglected and left to their own devices; I have heard husbands speak in derision of the motives of their wives. No woman in a happy American home can ever afford to listen to these parasites of her sex.

"Fortunately, the platform woman's influence is steadily on the wane. She was never a power. She was never even picturesque. Her worst injury was wrought upon certain weak women who for the time she deluded. But even with them she was soon regarded with wonder rather than with interest; with suspicion rather than with confidence. The disappearance of the platform woman is a case of a blot being blotted out."

Successive Steps in Success.

The ambitious amateur went to see the experienced theatrical manager.

"I want to be a star actress," she said. "What do you advise me to do?"

"H'm—have you ever had an affair of the heart?" he asked.

"Well," she smiled, "two or three young fellows are breaking their hearts about me."

"That won't quite do. Go and get your own heart broken," he said, "and then come again."

She had heard something like this before, and she went away with her chin in the air.

A year later, however, she returned.

"Well," she said, choking down a sob, "I have come back to you—heart-broken. I married one of those young men. He treated me shamefully and has deserted me!"

"Ah, that is something like," said the manager, rubbing his hands together. "We are getting on. Only one thing more is necessary, my dear young woman—get your divorce, and then we shall want you."—Chicago Tribune

Landmarks.

Every town has a liar or two, a smart Aleck, some pretty girls, more loafers than it needs, a woman or two that tattle, an old fogey that the town would be better off without, men who stand on the street corners and make remarks about the women, a man who laughs an idiotic laugh every time he says anything, scores of men with the caboose of their trousers worn smooth as glass and men who can tell you about the weather and how to run other people's business, but who have made a dismal failure of their own.—North-port News.

Wanted Something Quicker.

Some few years ago I issued a policy on the life of a man who was far from being a model husband. I called for the premium every week and rarely got it without a grumble from the wife. The last time I called she said:

"I ain't going to pay you any more. There's Mrs. Smith only had her old man in M.'s society three months, and he's dead and she's got the money. I'm going to put my old man in that 'se you needn't call again'—Living at Mercury.

A Kissing Nation.

In no other part of the world is kissing so much in vogue as in Russia. From time immemorial it has been the national salute. Indeed it is more of a greeting than a caress.

In public affairs, as in private, the kiss is an established custom. Fathers and sons kiss, old generals with rusty mustaches kiss, whole regiments kiss. The emperor kisses his officers. On a reviewing day there are almost as many kisses as shots exchanged. If a lilliputian corps of cadets have earned the imperial approval, the imperial salute is bestowed upon the head boy, who passes it on with a hearty report to his neighbor, he in his turn to the next, and so on, through the whole juvenile body.

On a holiday or fete day the young and delicate mistress of a house will not only kiss all her maidservants, but all her men-servants, too, and if the gentleman does not venture above her hand she will stoop and kiss his cheek.

To judge also from the number of salutes the matrimonial bond in these high circles must be one of uninterrupted felicity. A gentleman scarcely enters or leaves the room without kissing his wife either on her forehead, cheek or hand.

Germany has a superabundance of race horses and an insufficiency of heavy horses. The latter are annually imported in large numbers, while the others are a drug in the market.

Bamboo pens still retain their hold in India, where they have been in use for more than 1,000 years.

LETTER FROM CLYDE BONHAM.

Account of the Battle at Manila February Fifth.

The following letter has lately been received from Clyde Bonham, a Reno raised young man, which the JOURNAL has been permitted to publish.

CAVITE, Feb. 7, 1899.

DEAR MOTHER:

These have been very hot times for the fellows in Manila for the last few days, while we fellows in Cavite are laying quietly by and doing nothing.

The way the fighting started was this: The morning of the fourth the Nebraska Colonel drew a dead line and told the sentries to shoot "halt" once and if the Filipinos did not stop to plug it to them. The Filipinos are in the habit of answering "Filipino amigo" and coming right along not paying any attention to the sentries challenge.

The night of the fourth four Filipinos approached a Nebraska sentry and did not halt at the command and stepped over the dead line hollering "Filipino amigo." The sentry drew a bead on them, killed one. The other three ran back within the insurgent line. The insurgents then commenced firing on the outposts. The sentries fell back to the regiment in the trenches but the Filipinos drove the Nebraska Regiment back to the Colorado trenches. The Dewey opened upon them. The firing continued all night long.

The morning of the fifth the insurgent made a charge and were met by the First California Infantry, Minnesotas, Nebraskas, and the Third Artillery. Then the Charleston, Monadnock and Petrel steamed around the right flank of the enemy and just raked them with scrapnel and canister creating awful destruction. At the same time the indomitable First Utah Light Artillery boarded the narrow gauge train in Manila with their gatlings and six pounders and flanked the left in a rice field and just literally destroyed the left flank. The loss of the enemy was frightful. They were piled up like breast works in that rice field.

The insurgents had two good sized ordnance guns hidden in the woods which they used to small effect on the Americans in front. They finally turned them on the Charleston but all the shots fell short. The Charleston located them in about five minutes and got their range and sent a couple of shells over there that blew them all to pieces, so they were completely silenced.

Dewey poured the shells into Malite until it is now a complete ruin. As is also the whole country for seven miles around.

The most of the men killed in Manila were killed by Filipino women. The women would shoot out of the upper story windows with fatal effect so the Americans had to finally treat all alike, kill men, women and children wherever they saw them. Thirty Filipinos attacked twelve Red Cross nurses while they were carrying three wounded men from the field and killed four of them. They were then captured and were shot at sundown last night for firing on the Red Cross. Gen. King is not dead as reported but Col. Smith of the First Tennessee is.

Love to all

CLYDE.

Miss Edwards' Lecture at the Twentieth Century Club.

The lecture given by Miss Edwards before the Twentieth Century Club Friday afternoon was listened to by a large audience of ladies. The subject, "Health Gymnastics," was broadly discussed and showed that the young lady had given it much thought and study. She dwelt on the simple gymnastics, illustrating as she proceeded, making it doubly interesting. All the exercises given were those which any person could perform in their own homes and which, if carried on regularly, would be of great benefit. Miss Edwards spoke of the benefit of gymnastics from a medical standpoint, showing that science approves of athletics in moderation.

Since it was impossible to run this item yesterday morning it might be well to add that the reporter interviewed a number of ladies who were present at the lecture and learned the good work had already commenced. Several of the ladies went calling yesterday to find out if the other had begun to practice. Miss Edwards may feel that she is rewarded in having sown good seed in productive soil.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

Alex Montgomery Has Not Recovered From the Shock of His Wound.

The condition of Alex Montgomery, the S. P. shotgun messenger, who was accidentally shot last Friday, is reported as being very serious. His physicians state that he has not yet recovered from the nervous shock always attendant upon the infliction of a severe physical injury. Although he does not complain and appears to be resting fairly well, the doctors well know that the reaction which will soon take place may result in his death.

The Drs. Phillips and Dr. Bergstein, who are attending the patient, said that they feared Montgomery would not live until morning.

The severe nature of the wound may be inferred when it is considered that he was standing only fifteen feet from the muzzle of the gun. Even the wads passed through his trousers and entered the thigh with the shot. He bled profusely as the rocks by the dam where the accident occurred bear evidence.

The boy who is responsible for the accident is prostrated with fright. Some of his relatives entertain a fear that he may lose his reason.

Edward B. Payne.

The following is taken from a San Francisco paper:

Edward B. Payne is delivering a course of lectures on the leading theme of Walt Whitman's poems, at Ceres' Hall, 621 O'Farrell street. The first lecture on February 27th was on "The Character of Personality." On March 7th the topic will be "This Fizzle—The New World," and on March 14th, on the "Germes of a Greater Religion." Mr. Payne's treatment of these great themes will be broad, thoughtful and sincere; for the habits of a lifetime can always be relied upon.

President Jordan of Stanford says the lectures given by Mr. Payne were among the most scholarly ever given in California and a rare treat.

Seats on sale at Hodgkinson's drug store. Price 50 cents for a single lecture, $1 for the course of three.

The State Militia.

Captain C. H. Stoddard is in receipt of a letter from Governor Sadler requesting information as to the desire of the citizens of Reno respecting the reorganization of the militia company. The law provides for the organization and maintenance of five companies and unless Reno signifies an intention to reorganize applications from other points will be considered. The Governor has received information to the effect that Virginia wants two companies, Elko one, Winnemucca one and Carson one. Unless steps are taken at once towards reorganization it will be too late. We should by all means have one company, as the expense to the State will be the same whether we have one or not, and as this is the leading county of the State we should have the banner company. It is the JOURNAL's belief that the company will be organized at once.

Discovered by Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and two bottles, has absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes H. O. Hamrick & Co. of Shelby N. C. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The Ravages of Grip.

That modern scourge, the Grip, poisons the air with its fatal germs, so that no home is safe from its ravages, but multitudes have found a sure protection against this dangerous malady in Dr. King's New Discovery. When you feel a soreness in your bones and muscles, have chills and fever, with sore throat, pain in the back of the head, catarrhal symptoms and a stubborn cough you may know you have the Grip, and that you need Dr. King's New Discovery. It will promptly cure the worst cough, heal the inflamed membranes, kill the disease germs and prevent the dreaded after effects of the malady. Price 50c. and $1.00. Money back if not cured. A trial bottle free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Bargains in Pianos.

A. P. Hodges, the reliable piano dealer who has paid yearly visits to this section for years, has returned with a fine line of high grade pianos to again give the people an opportunity to purchase first-class instruments. Mr. Hodges can be seen at the Golden Eagle hotel, and anyone desiring to purchase a good piano should by all means improve the opportunity now offered.

THEY HONORED ST. PATRICK.

A Warm Time at the Palace Hotel Last Friday Night.

A number of ardent admirers of the famous snake-banishing saint exchanged courtesies at the Palace Hotel last Friday evening in the form of sundry beer bottles, gin glasses and bar-room chairs. The current reports regarding the festival are many and conflicting, but after half a day of tireless and bulldogged inquiry, a JOURNAL reporter got to the bottom of the affair, and here it is:

To any who should be so incredulous as to doubt his statement, he will give his solemn oath upon a stack of Reno Gazette as high as the Washington Monument that it is absolutely true.

Two sons of Erin had been toasting the Irish patron Saint with liberal doses of their sainted Irish whiskey, and were far enough along to see the snakes fleeing from the bogs of their native country. Said Pat to Mike:

"It sames to me that I kin say mi swate could mither standin' in the door way whasin' for me, her darlint bye, wid a bunch of shillelals in her hand. That is mi home, lad. Hurray for ould Oirland!"

"Go an wid ye, yer drunkun," retorted Mike. "Yer home is right 'ere in Reno. If ye wasn't drunkun ye would remember yer own little brick house built entiorely of wood, sthandin' all by itsself in the midst of sixty or seventy others jist like it."

"Ye lie!" yelled Pat, lettin' fly a four-pound beer glass which took Mike over the eye and laid him cold. Other bog-trotters mixed up in the celebration as soon as this occurred, and for a time nothing could be seen or heard in the tumult of flying furniture.

When the excitement lulled, the mangled remains of five men and two women were gathered up and taken to the morgue in a clothes basket.

Complete particulars may be had from J. Fitzgerald of the Palace Hotel.
